

I'm not going to lie. It's bad.

To repair the break, we'll need to surgically implant metal plates along the bone. You're booked in for the end of the month.

This will be a fairly major procedure. You'll be out of commission for several weeks.

Until then – you can go home. Call in sick to work. Try to relax.

Take the medication, and strictly avoid alcohol and cigarettes.

That doesn't sound very relaxing.

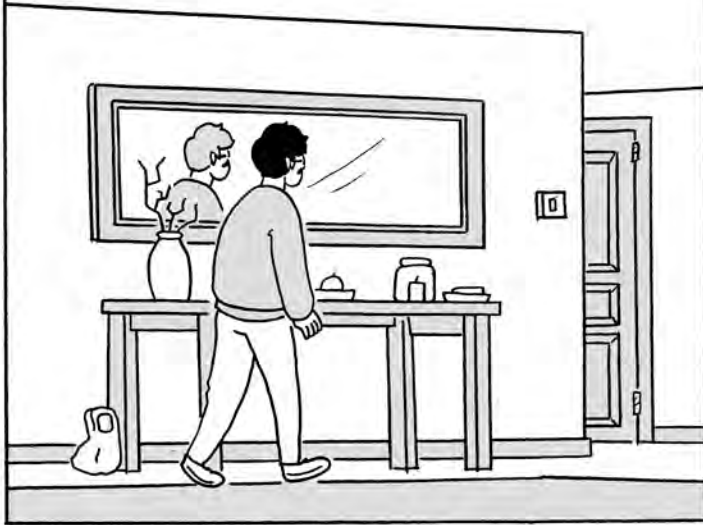

Giorgio's place is nice.

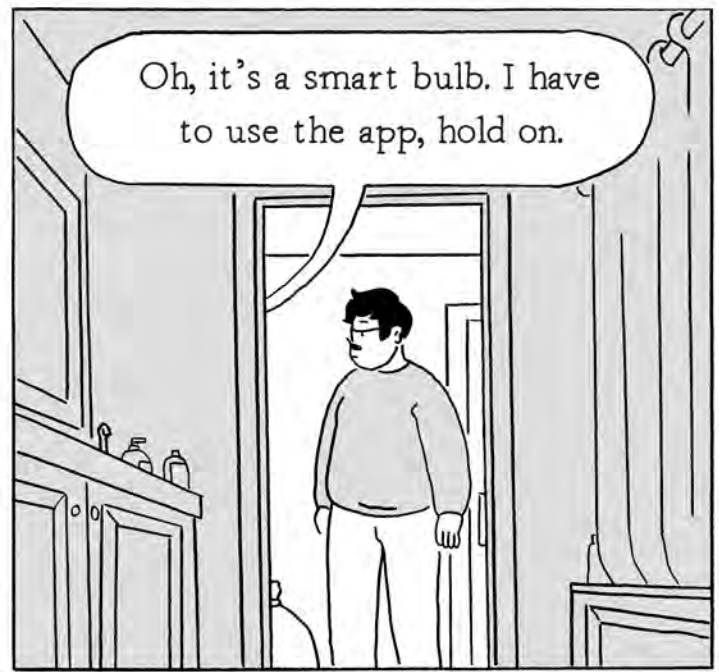

Or, outside the city it'd be 'nice'. In London it's practically a mansion.

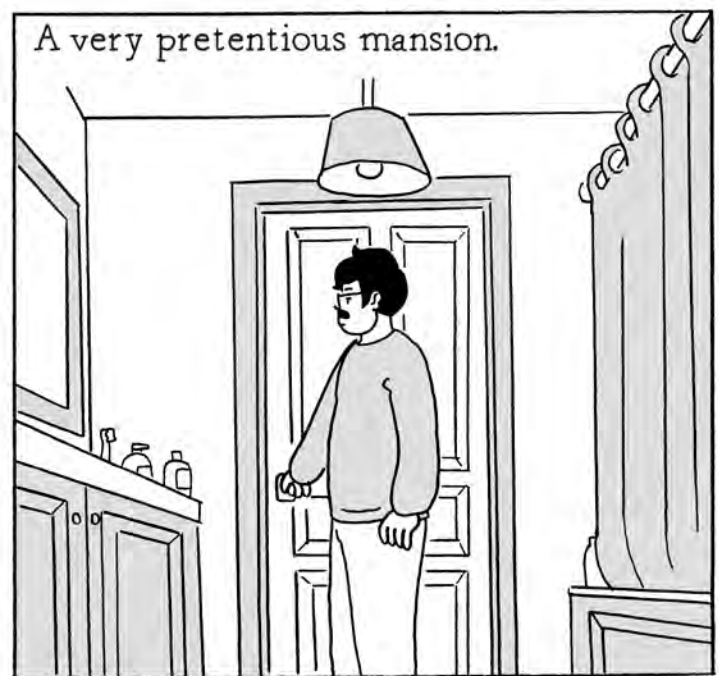

Hey, your bathroom light is out.

Oh, it's a smart bulb. I have to use the app, hold on.

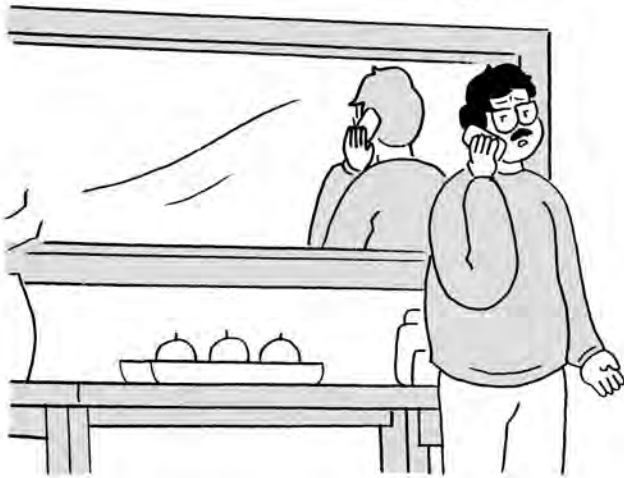

A very pretentious mansion.

To be honest, he's a mess, Ro.

I've never seen him like this. He's usually so relaxed and confident.

I think something's wrong.

I mean, he just got hit by a bus. Could that be it?

I'm being a judgemental arsehole, huh?

Only a bit.

